2025 Wine of Provenance Results

Classic wine styles really held true for the top entries of the class. The whites continue to show consistency and an ability to age with grace while still displaying place and vintage. The reds seemed to perform best when they were chosen from similar vintages and there was a more impactful influence of winemaking evolution across the span of vintages – it worked in the top sets, but did cloud the thread between some sets.

Class 01

Dry Riesling, Vintage 2025

Judges: Peter Kelly, Sarah Crowe, Julian Langworthy, Jessey McGowen, Sophie Otton, Brock Harrison, Frank Barbaro, Peggy Shiau, Belinda van Eysen, Gonzalo Sanchez

Comments: Some lovely wines considering the difficult season, some wines showing an early harvest and underripe fruit and acid, while others showed some generosity and riper fruit flavours.
The best wines showed fruit purity and complexity and balanced residual sugar.

Class 02

Dry Riesling, Vintage 2024 and older

Judges: Adam Walls, Sarah Crowe, Andrea Pritzker, Shavaughn Wells, Sophie Otton, Brock Harrison, Olivia Brenecki, Tom Geyer, Belinda van Eyssen, Gonzalo Sanchez

Comments: Our section covered all the 2024""s with only 3 wines not from that vintage. A lot of wines looked mute on the nose and were either very tightly wound or looked forward. 5 call back gave three golds which were all aromatic, vibrant and with great drive. Always a delightful bracket with some beautiful, pure and youthful examples. some wines with too high acid and some looking older than their years.

Judges: Adam Walls, Sophie Otton, Brock Harrison, Olivia Brenecki, Tom Geyer

Comments: The bracket mirrored what is going on with Chardonnay across the country. The wines were fresh and fruit focused. The two gold medal winners two distinct styles. In general oak use was sensitive which was fabulous to see.

Judges: Adam Walls, Andrea Pritzker, Shavaughn Wells, Olivia Brenecki, Tom Geyer

Comments: 100% strike rate in this class speaks volumes about how high quality this class of wines were. Most judges noted how exciting it is to see more of these varieties planted across the region. Grenache Blanc won out over the Viognier. The winner had great texture and weight and phenolic grip.

Judges: Peter Kelly, Adam Walls, Sarah Crowe, Andrea Pritzker, Shavaughn Wells, Sophie Otton, Brock Harrison, Julian Langworthy, Jessey McGowen, Frank Barbaro, Ally Gossen, Olivia Brenecki, Tom Geyer, Belinda van Eyssen, Gonzalo Sanchez

Comments: Some real skill was required to let Shiraz shine in 2023, the best wines had well handled oak, along with fruit reaching phenolic maturity.
Not an easy class to judge but one that generated a lot of discussion from the judging panel.

The vintage has given freshness and brightness to the class as a whole. Some wines looked tired and green. Some lacked the weight to handle the amount of oak they were given.
Some lovely wines with fruit and tannin/extraction in balance well rewarded. A lot of youthful exuberance amongst these wines. Oak handling was not always adjusted to the cooler season. Best wines represent a range of styles.

Comments: Diversity that was well executed was the highlight of the class. Top wines were balanced, showed freshness and personality. Fruit purity and power was a common thread throughout this class which is a testimony to the vintage. The variety of styles again shows that Barossa Shiraz has something for everyone. Heavy oak and lack of freshness are things to watch. Overall an enjoyable class, most wines were not over extracted and with nice balance and fruit, some obvious oak at this stage on a number of wines was not always good. The best 2021 wines showed the hallmarks of a classic vintage and maintained freshness sitting alongside depth and balance.

Comments: A fun class, the top wines have been blended for overall balance and deliciousness to make compelling wines. some newer varieties being handled respectfully. A couple of tired, faulty and microbial issues as well across the class.

Dry Cabernet Sauvignon, Vintage 2022 and older

Judges: Adam Walls, Julian Langworthy, Jessey McGowen, Olivia Brenecki, Tom Geyer

Comments: A class of two halves. The best wines which were among the 6 call backs were bright and fresh and vibrant. The oak and tannin in perfect harmony with the fruit. The lesser wines looked tired, forward and green. 2021 in general showed a higher quality than the 22''s.

Comments: a couple of nice wines, with harmony in the best wines. A few tiring early and some angular wines with acids out of balance.

Comments: Very well crafted wines shone. Good picking decisions, bunch management and freshness were key.
An exciting glass with many delicious bright young wines, some of the older wines showing oak over fruit, good use of bunches, harder in the cooler season.

Judges: Adam Walls, Sarah Crowe, Sophie Otton, Brock Harrison, Julian Langworthy, Jessey McGowen, Olivia Brenecki, Tom Geyer, Belinda van Eysen, Gonzalo Sanchez

Comments: A great class with a range of styles, some good use of bunches throughout the class, but adjustment needs to be made in the cooler years, the occasional oak heavy wine.

Great class to judge and a great selection of wines to drink. In general all the wines were bright and fresh and fruit focused without losing the flavour that consumers love about the Barossa. These are wines that showcase that the Barossa is not just about big wines.

Dry Red Wine – Other Single Varieties, Vintage 2024 and older

Judges: Adam Walls, Sophie Otton, Brock Harrison, Olivia Brenecki, Tom Geyer

Comments: It was a challenge to judge this class. It's so exciting to see such a diverse range of varieties being bottled. Two distinct style emerged. One wear the wines are made to enjoy young and fresh. A great addition to the Barossa offering. The other style showed the wines were worked more and with more structure. Today a lot of the richer wines didn't look as good. The exception to this was the gold medal winning Monte that has great tannin structure. Exciting to watch where this class goes in the future.

49th Barossa Wine Show 2025 - Notes

New Trophy Honours Old Vines

The Barossa Wine Show is proud to announce the inaugural Centenarian Vineyard Wine Trophy. Presented for the first time in 2025, it recognises the best wine made from vineyards aged 100 years or more.

The Centenarian Vineyard Wine Trophy honours generations of effort and creative winemaking while highlighting the singularity of the Barossa and Eden Valleys' unique landscape. This is a great step forward in bringing attention to these prized old vineyards and their evocative wines.

Andrew Caillard MW – The Australian Ark.
